MR. AND MRS HENRY LANDON CABELL and Mrs. John D. Lottler entertained a large company of guests at an afternoon recoption yesterday given in the Commonwealth Club. It was one of the handsomest affairs of the winter, and several hundred people called during recolving hours, from 4 to 7 o'clock. Mrs. Cabell and Mrs. Lottler received in a room that was hung with smilax and decorated with pink flowers. In the dining room a table was arranged at one end and decorated with large vases of American Beauty roses and baskets of spun candy filled with bonbons at either end. The walls of this room were also curtained in smilax and palms, and bay trees were used in the hallways. It was a lovely affair. Is Norfolk.

Leaving Parksloy, where a night session was held in Hopkins Hall, yesterday morning, the special proceeded to Onley. Again the large attendance exceeded the capacity of the lecture cars, in spite of the fact that the grange of that section was in session. The meeting was transferred to the Eastern Shore Produce Exchange building. After introductory remarks by Commissioner Koiner, Mr. Lusader, the poultry expert of Culpeper county, gave an interesting tolk on the profitable results of raising chickens and marketing eggs.

Mr. Zinn, of Ohle, spoke at some length upon the essentials of soil fortillity, and advocated the growing of alfalfa.

The concluding lecture was on "Potatoes," by Professor T. C. Johnson, This is the principal product of Accomac county, and naturally the audience displayed unusual interest in what he had to say.

The entire morning was spent at Onley, and the afternoon at Painter, Four lectures were dailvered on the train at Painter to an equally large gathering of furmers, who drove to the starton from all sections of the surrounding country.
